

ABSTRACT

A touch screen improved with reflection rate of light, wherein a retardation film at a touch panel is laminated with special ink in multiple layers to pass through an anti-reflection treatment for reduction of reflection rate of light glaring on eyes caused by 5 diffused reflection of light and for improvement of permeability rate of light coming from an LCD mounted thereunder, thereby optimizing a brightness of the touch screen.